The Cincinnati International Wine Festival has been pouring good taste upon the Queen City for 17 years.

"It's a unique event, it's fun," Wine Festival President Connie Wiles said. "It has become a tradition in the city."

This year, the Wine Festival will begin with 14 special dinners in some of the area's finest restaurants on Thursday, March 22.

The winemakers and chefs will present a multi-course dinner paired with distinguished wines. Ticket prices for the Wine Festival dinners range from $100-$200.

On March 23 and 24 The Grand Tastings, which are the centerpiece of the festival, will be held in the Grand Ballroom on the third floor of the Duke Energy Center in downtown Cincinnati. More than 130 wineries will serve 600 varieties of wine.

Participating wineries include Wente Vineyards, Robert Mondavi Private Selection, and Beringer Vineyards, among others.

This year Carolyn Wente, of the Wente Vineyards, is serving as Honorary Chair for the Grand Tastings. She is part of the fourth generation of the Wente family to be involved in winemaking. She is eager to share her passion and knowledge about wine-making with the audience.

Also new this year is a Charity Auction & Luncheon on Saturday, March 24, in the Hilton Cincinnati Netherland Plaza's Regal Hall of Mirrors. The live auction will include a phenomenal variety of limited-release bottles, rare wines, as well as exotic trips to destinations like Sante Fe, California and Italy. The auction will be followed by a special luncheon at the Hilton Cincinnati Netherland Plaza.

Founded by Connie Wiles' late husband Russ in 1991, the Cincinnati International Wine Festival raises awareness and funds for organizations such as Catholic Inner-City Schools Education, the Art Academy of Cincinnati, Aids Volunteers of Cincinnati, and the Free Store/Food Bank. In past years, the Festival has donated more than $2.25 million to these and other local charities.

According to Melinda Kruyer of the Public Relations firm Kruyer & Associates, who handles all public relations for the festival, being able to have fun while contributing to the many charities benefiting from the events are what makes the festival worthwhile.

"The main purpose is to raise funds because it's a great opportunity to do so," Kruyer said. "But it's an opportunity to try new wines and have a good time."

Kruyer said that the selection of wines at the festival rivals any other wine event she has attended. At the festival, Kruyer said, she plans ahead to know her plan of attack.

"I like to map out a strategy about where to go, what to do," Kruyer said. "I like to visit the medal winners of the year before and visit new wineries. I've tasted wines that I normally would not have. Its really fun."

As a word of advice to attendees of the Wine Festival, Kruyer said to enjoy each sip, but you don't have to taste that very last drop.

"Don't feel like you have to drink the whole glass," Kruyer said. "You will be sampling over 600 wines, so take your time and enjoy."

Don't miss the Cut for Russ Wiles Memorial Golf Tournament

By NEVAMARTIN
Contributor

Wine and golf were driving forces in the life of Russ Wiles, founder of the Cincinnati International Wine Festival.

Although Wiles passed away four years ago, he saw the Wine Festival's golf tournament established during the last three years of his life.

Held on Monday, June 18, at TPC River's Bend in Maineville, the Russ Wiles Memorial Golf Tournament will kick off festivities with a Dom Perignon champagne toast at 11:30 a.m. and a shotgun start at noon.

"The (tournament) is the last event of the year for the Wine Festival and all the proceeds from the year's events are donated to local charities," said Don Becker, Executive Vice President of Kroger, a Wine Festival sponsor.

He named The Dan Beard Council of the Boy Scouts, Catholic Inner-city Schools Education and The Freestore Food bank as a few of the beneficiaries.

"Kroger has participated (in the tournament) every year since the beginning in 2000," he said.

Those with golfing skills as well as an appreciation for food and drink will enjoy every minute of the tournament, Michelle Powell (néé Egbers), Executive Director of the Wine Festival, said. The victor of the Closest to Pin Shootout wins a trip to Napa Valley for two. For the Million Dollar Hole-In-One, golfers will earn a chance to go to Las Vegas to win $1 million. Other prizes include mega-bottles of exotic wine and an opportunity to win up to $1,400 in an optional Skins Game.

And the fun doesn't stop at testing the golfers' driving and putting aptitudes. They will also enjoy fine food donated from area restaurants.

"We'll have at least five food stations set up," said Powell, "plus beer and wine throughout the course."

A reception of hors d'oeuvres and cocktails also are on tap after the last hole, along with the announcement of golf winners and a silent auction.

Joe Noll, vice president and general manager of Heidelberg Distributing Co. and its sister company, the Ohio Valley Wine & Beer Co., said the tournament pays tribute in a wonderful way to Wiles, Wine Festival founder.

"I worked for Russ," said Noll, who has encouraged several local people to tee off for the tourney.

"Once people play, they want to keep playing. It's a great way to honor Russ because it's good food, good wine and good golf."

All for a good cause. Last year's tournament exceeded $60,000, Powell added.

The Russ Wiles Memorial Golf Tournament is limited to 28 four-somes, and Powell advised signing up early because the slots fill up fast.

"We have sold out every year, so make your reservations now," she said.

For information and to sign up for the golf tournament, call 723-WINE (9463) or register online at www.winefestival.com.

We wish to create and coordinate the most breath taking event you can imagine. We are here to help utilize your ideas into a clear, concise, and inspiring affair.

Charity Auction

held during the Wine Festival
this year

By NEVAMARTIN
Contributor

Take a trip to Italy. Travel to Wente Vineyards in Livermore Valley, California.

Or simply sample the extraordinary cuisine and vintages poured at a local noted restaurant.

These are a few offerings up for bid at the Charity Auction and Winery Luncheon, to be held for the first time during the Cincinnati International Wine Festival on Saturday, March 24, at the Hilton Cincinnati Netherlands Plaza Hall of Mirrors.

Formerly, the auction has been an evening gala, a formal affair held a month before the Wine Festival itself, said Connie Wiles. Her late husband, Russ, was the founder of the Wine Festival.

"This year it's different," said Wiles. "We'll get together at 10 a.m. to munch on pastries and champagne and have an auction preview."

The auction has two levels of admission. To sit on the auction floor and enjoy the luncheon, the cost is $125. Balcony seating without lunch is $50. Preview and silent auction begins at 10 a.m.; live auction at 11 a.m.

Dress is casual.

"A lot of the same people may come, but we wanted to make it more friendly, more interesting for people who are interested in wine," Wiles added.

Whatever level of ticket they purchase, those attending can bid on a grand array of offerings that concentrate on good food and drink, said Erica Keith. She is on the auction committee, which secures items to offer up for bid — among them cooking classes in Santa Fe, N. M.)

One of the outstanding items is a trip for four to Wente Vineyards in California. The highest bidder will be a guest of Carolyn Wente, honorary chair of this year's Wine Festival. The four will enjoy a two-night stay at the Wente Village guest cottage that includes complimentary wine, beverages and snacks, breakfast and a chance to play golf. They also will receive a VIP tour of the Wente Vineyards and a complimentary wine tasting. The trip also includes four Delta Airline vouchers.

Those purchasing tickets for the auction and luncheon will enjoy a gourmet repast, which immediately follows the auction, at 12:30 p.m. Each table is hosted by a different winery and will feature a variety of special wines to pair with each course. Those who purchase balcony seating will still be able to bid on auction items and enjoy wine service.

"All of our offerings involve food and wine," said Keith. "It's educational and fun."

Tickets are limited for the Charity Auction and Winery Luncheon, that benefits the Wine Festival's 27 charities. For information, call 513-723-9463 or visit www.winefestival.com.

Wente brings experience, passion

By KATRINAROBKE
Community Press staff writer

Passion and experience in the wine industry is what Carolyn Wente knows best.

Her knowledge and dedication has earned her the position of this year's honorary chair for the Cincinnati International Wine Festival.

"I am extremely honored and flattered to have been considered and named honorary chair of the festival," Wente said. "It was a bit of a surprise."

Carolyn Wente, of the California winery Wente Vineyards, was born and raised in Livermore, California. She was educated at Stanford University where she earned a degree in History.

After two years in the corporate world, she returned to her family's business where she has worked hard and gained the respect from others in the industry.

Wente's friend Lynn Wallace, who has worked with her in the Napa Valley Vintner's Association for the past three years, said that Wente is a dedicated and spirited leader who can share knowledge and experience with those who attend the Wine Festival.

"She is always ready to step up and drive the wine region forward with a dramatic new idea," Wallace said.

Wente has been a part of the wine business for nearly 30 years of her family's 124-year history of wine-making. Growing up in California wine country, she absorbed information about business and the beauty of wine-making from everyone around her.

"My interest in wine and food was instilled in me while growing up," Wente said. "I can't think of a weekend when I was not learning from my grandmother or mother baking and culinary techniques, or, memories of my father or grandfather picking (my brothers and I) up and driving around the vineyards."

Wente said these memories, as well as the exposure to the business helped peak her interests in wine's place on the dinner table and as a part of everyday life. "(Wine) is a business, a lifestyle, a heritage – rich with tradition," she said. "(It's an) innovation that has allowed us to prosper and grow."

Throughout her career, Wente has written two books, "Sharing the Vineyard Table: A Celebration of Wine and Food from the Wente Vineyards Restaurant" with executive chef Kimball Jones and "The Casual Vineyard Table," a less formal take on meal preparation and wine and food pairing.

Wente has traveled to Cincinnati and other parts of Ohio several times. She said she looks forward to returning to the region to help host such a wonderful, charitable event.

Carolyn Wente.

Age Beautifully
COSMETIC
SURGERY
at University Pointe

Healthy skin ages beautifully.

Fraxel™ Laser, chemical peels, microdermabrasion and dermal fillers are available to refresh and restore your skin back to its natural beauty.

Our board certified surgical team now features Dr. David Hom, Dr. John Kitzmiller and Dr. Christopher Gordon. They are joined by medical skin care specialist Cathy Fricke.

This team will inform and guide you to make your best choice for skin care, body and facial enhancements, and reconstructive surgery.
